Designed by acclaimed architect Rafael Viñoly, The Kimmel Center for the Performing Arts has become a cultural landmark on Philadelphia's Avenue of the Arts. Sophisticated modern interiors create impressive backdrops for special events, from the Commonwealth Plaza with its soaring 150-foot glass ceiling to the intimate Wachovia Founder's Club.

The first opera house in the country, The Academy of Music has defined elegance and splendor for nearly 150 years. Event spaces include the magnificent ballroom, modeled after the Hall of Mirrors at Versailles and the exceptionally graceful main lobby. The Academy of Music is located at the corner of Broad and Locust Streets.
